

Addison Trail names March recipient of 88's Best recognition

Connor White has been named as Addison Trail's March recipient of 88's Best recognition for his outstanding work in the performing arts/electives. White, a senior, was recognized during the March 18th District 88 Board of Education meeting.

For the past four years, the staff, students and community of Addison Trail have had the distinct pleasure of witnessing the famous characters of Danny Zuko, Don Lockwood, Jack Kelly and various leads from the works of Shakespeare come to life on stage through White's performances in a way that transports the audience to the places and experiences those characters encounter. White has a gift of showing the audience different perspectives through the characters he portrays, and he has raised the bar for Addison Trail Theatre and motivates his peers to do the same.

When White first came to Addison Trail, he had very little experience in theatre, and his only singing background was with popular songs on the radio. During his freshman year, White joined theatre and wondered how he was going to find his niche in this program he knew he wanted to be a part of and make a difference. He has participated in 13 shows and all of the major productions at Addison Trail and has been the lead in many of them. He was inducted as a Thespian his freshman year and is a leader, mentor and model for many of the other students in theatre.

As White began to hone his acting and singing abilities, English teacher and Theatre Director Anna McSweeney encouraged him to audition for the All-State show. He snagged a part in the 2018 Illinois High School Theatre Festival (IHSTF) All-State production of "Big Fish," which was then chosen to perform during the International Thespian Festival last June in Nebraska. White earned a part in this year's IHSTF All-State production of "In the Heights" as well.

"White is by far one of the most talented students I have ever worked with - not only at Addison Trail, but within the state of Illinois," McSweeney said. "His achievements speak for themselves, but I would like to speak to his character. White is the hardest-working kid I know. His hunger for learning about theatre, acting, film, music, etc. astounds me, and I wish more students could have his dedication to education."

"White has a maturity that several teachers besides myself have noticed. He is so aware of his own limitations and abilities. He always takes responsibility for his actions and conducts himself with pure professionalism. He has taken everything I can teach him, and I feel like we've traded places; I am now learning from him. I am so excited to see what he does in the future, and I am sure we will hear from Connor White in the future."

Physical education teacher Sheri D'Ambrase agreed.

"White is one of the kindest and most talented Blazers I have seen in my 31 years here."

LeVonne Cescolini-Boyer, social studies teacher, Orchesis sponsor and musical choreographer, said White's enthusiasm is what makes him stand out.

"White is an amazing student, who I have had the pleasure of choreographing for over the last three years," she said. "His positive attitude is contagious, and he will be missed on the ATHS stage in the years to come. I see a very bright future for White on Broadway someday soon."

White manages a rigorous course load on top of his commitment to theatre, and he also is a part of the ATribute yearbook staff.

"There is no one like White," said Jessica Clark, English teacher and yearbook sponsor. "He has been a major creative contributor to our yearbook for the last two years. He uses his unassailable wit and positive energy to motivate others. One of his most reputable qualities is his ability to hold himself accountable if he makes a mistake. There are not too many teenagers who reflect on their actions as much as White does. He is a valuable member of our yearbook squad and is worthy of any honor that comes his way in the field of performing arts and electives. I am very proud of him."

White plans to attend Chicago College of Performing Arts at Roosevelt University.

Indian Trail celebrates students' interests

At Indian Trail Junior High School, students had the opportunity to explore some high interest topics as they participated in the school's 3rd Quarter PBIS Student Interest Fair Celebration recently. The school offered 35 sessions with a wide variety of topics, including Cultures of the World, Auto Tech, Natural Tie Dye, Marshall Arts, and Sound Engineering. The afternoon celebration featured a number of visitors who shared their expertise in a given area with the students.

Addison Trail baseball team no-hits Lyons Township

Danny Zatos, Meglio combine efforts on the mound

By Mike Miazga
CORRESPONDENT

The Addison Trail baseball team turned in a combined no-hitter effort recently in a West Suburban Conference crossover game against a highly touted Lyons Township team.

Unfortunately, Addison Trail lost the game 3-1. "Even though we had the no-hitter we gave up a couple of unearned runs and that got us," said Addison Trail coach Mike Kennedy. "We had a couple errors and walked a couple guys and that's where they got us. It was a really good game and we played really good baseball. Lyons Township is ranked eighth in the state. We were able to keep them from hitting the baseball. We were in it until the end. It was just a great game."

Danny Zatos threw the first five innings and Josh Meglio came in and pitched the sixth to close out the no-hitter.

Addison Trail was 4-4 overall through its first eight games and split its first two West Suburban Conference Gold Division games with Downers Grove South.

"We've been doing well, but we've been bit by the injury bug," said Kennedy.

Addison Trail defeated Downers Grove South in its conference opener on a game-ending three-run double off the top of the wall. "We've won some big games so far," said Kennedy. "The first conference game against Downers South was big and then we lost to them in the second game and need to finish the third game. Right now, we're 4-4, which is pretty good. We're swinging the bats well and have pretty much been led by a lot of our seniors."

Nick Daudelin, Vince Daudelin, Michael Scali and AJ Carlson, the team's leadoff hitter, were lauded for their work at the plate, as was Jimmy Zatos, who recently was injured. "We've definitely been bit by the injury bug," Kennedy noted.

On the pitching front, Josh Meglio has three of the team's four wins out of the bullpen. "He's done a great job for us," said Kennedy. "Overall with our pitching we are trying to find our way a little bit."

Nick Daudelin, who logged 40 innings on the mound last year, has missed his last two starts due to injury, Kennedy noted. "We're waiting for Nick to get back, but until then we need other guys to step up and we are seeing that with Alex Conrad and Danny Zatos."

Scali is a three-year starter at shortstop for Addison Trail, while Carlson, Vince Daudelin and Nick Daudelin bring back veteran experience.

"We graduated a lot of innings," said Kennedy. "But we've had a lot of guys who have stepped up and done a nice job. We've had some bumps in the road a little bit, but they are settling down and filling the zone with strikes and teams are putting it in play and we are playing good defense."

Kennedy expects to see even more progress in the upcoming weeks. "As the season goes on, we're going to continue to build on some of these early successes and continue to get better," he said. "We will have some growing pains, but I think for the most part those are behind us. As we get deeper into conference play, guys are becoming more accustomed to varsity play."

Addison Trail was scheduled to play a three-game WSC Gold series this week against Leyden. The Blazers are off over the weekend for prom.

"We will have some growing pains, but I think for the most part those are behind us. As we get deeper into conference play, guys are becoming more accustomed to varsity play."

Fenton girls soccer team ties Addison Trail

Queyquep and Cabral turn in strong boys track indoor times for Bison

CORRESPONDENT

Things are starting to round into form for the Fenton girls soccer team.

The Bison recently tied a game with Addison Trail and also lost a contest to Wheaton Academy. Fenton was 0-3-2 overall and 0-2 in Metro Suburban Conference Red Division play through late last week.

"We have finally gained some girls who were on vacation or injured and we're starting to build team chemistry and we're getting into a rhythm," said Fenton coach Victor Ruiz, who added he's seen improvements on both sides of the ball of late.

Through those first five games, Kimberly Rivera was leading the team with two goals. Natalie Diaz and Alexa Herrera each had one goal.

Ruiz said Rivera, who is playing center back, has solidified Fenton's back line along with Jacky Noguera, who also is anchoring the back line and playing well, he noted.

Ruiz added the team continues to work on timing and rhythm and finding the back of the net. "There still is work to be done, but it looks promising," he said.

Fenton played Elmwood Park in a MSC Red game earlier this week.

Fenton boys track

The Fenton boys track team is coming off a 2018 season where it finished fourth in the conference. Jimmy Deckert returns for the Bison as an all-conference performer in both the shot put and discus.

The Bison did have several highlights from the recently completed indoor season where junior Ethan Queyquep ran 25.1 in the 200 at the Buffalo Grove invitational and senior Javier Cabral ran 55.9 in the 400 at the Lockport invitational a week later.

Cabral will run the 400 and 200, while newcomer Queyquep runs the 100, 200 and sprint-relay events.

Senior Nick Herringer is back in the 300 hurdles, while Deckert is currently rehabbing from a torn ACL this fall. Sophomore Matt Sisto is back and will run the 1,600.

Another key newcomer for Fenton is sophomore thrower Quinn Wilcoxen.

"We have traditionally had strong distance athletes, but lost several all-conference athletes to graduation," noted Fenton coach Clint Porter. "As such, we are reloading in this segment, so to speak. We have strong throws with Jimmy Deckert and newcomer Quinn Wilcoxen. This year, we have some very strong sprinters with quality in the 300 hurdles, 200 and 400. We are very young across the board though with a majority of our distance and sprint groups being comprised of sophomores and freshmen."

Porter is looking for more individual accomplishments at the bigger late-season meets. "We do not have the depth at the upper level to make a huge splash at the conference meet," he said. "We are looking for conference efforts in the throws and some sprint events, and that is where our hopes for a state qualifier are as well."

Willowbrook girls badminton team racking up the wins

Warriors boys track team readying for outdoor season

By Mike Miazga
CORRESPONDENT

The Willowbrook girls badminton team continues to churn out impressive results.

The Warriors were 9-2-1 overall in their first 12 dual contests and sported a 2-0 record in West Suburban Conference Gold Division play.

In recent action, Willowbrook won the Shepard invitational and also scored a 15-0 victory over Leyden in WSC Gold action. The Warriors lost 14-1 in non-conference play to Neuqua Valley, a team Willowbrook coach Eastman Tiu feels is in contention for the state championship.

Tiu cited recent strong play from the likes of Hannah Konrath, Charlotte Dewyer and Grace Wachholz in singles play, and Chloe Harr and Lizzie Romero in doubles.

"Hannah, Charlotte and Chloe has shown incredible drive to be the best they can be and have stepped up in their roles as team leaders among the girls their age," Tiu said.

Through late last week, Dewyer was 14-2 in the No. 2 singles position, while Kaitlyn Fox and Nicole Kapica were 13-3 at No. 1 doubles.

"We have been competing hard recently," said Tiu. "They have been winning matches they are supposed to win and competing hard against very skilled opponents and learning from those matches."

Tiu has noted the most improvement in strategy and with his players being self-aware of in-game adjustments," he noted.

The coach added the Warriors are hard at work minimizing unforced errors and "not getting down on ourselves for making mistakes and staying positive."

Tiu said the team's goals are still ahead of it. "Everyone still has their eyes on achieving those goals," he said. "At the halfway point, the girls are still hungry to win and do their best."

Willowbrook recently hosted a quad meet with Downers Grove North, New Trier and Lyons, as well as an eight-team invitational.

Willowbrook boys track coach TJ Artman continues to be excited about his team as it heads into the outdoor portion of the season.

"We have solid senior leadership with some fresh new faces of all ages," he said. "The boys are building a program and team camaraderie. It's been a very enjoyable and fast indoor season. We all are looking forward to sun and outdoors."

Willowbrook was fourth in the West Suburban Gold indoors, while its sophomores took second as did its freshman squad. "We have strong underclassmen—sophomores and freshmen," he said.

Artman also is impressed with the character of his team. "It's about team and fun," he said. "We have lots and lots of good character and we've had some memorable moments already. It's more than just track and field here. It's family."

With a lot of young talent, Artman said improvement will be continuous. "We have new talent that is so raw," he said. "But we will get there by the end of the season. Again, we're new and raw, but we also have many strong returners leading the newbies."

Artman would like to see Willowbrook improve on its fourth-place indoor conference finish, and "bring more to state than one person," he said. "We will continue to stress team and family."

Is the end near?

The fate of Lufkin Pool was on the agenda during this week's Villa Park Village Board meeting at the Iowa Community Center. One item on the agenda at the April 8 meeting, which was held after this week's Villa Park Review went to press, asked trustees to authorize a proposal to demolish Lufkin Pool and related structures at a cost of $77,800. The agenda noted that a non-binding referendum question in the April 2 election asked voters if they supported the village spending up to $1 million in new property taxes to fund repairs while 952 voters cast "Yes" votes. The pool, which is about 65 years old, was not open during 2018. In February 2018, the village board rejected a resolution to authorize up to $200,000 in repairs that would have allowed the pool to open for the season. Minutes after voting against that resolution, the board considered a resolution to authorize demolition of the pool. The board voted to table that resolution until November. In November the board voted to place the non-binding referendum question on the April 2 ballot. Two of the candidates who were just elected to the board—Kevin Patrick and Christine Murphy—said the resolution was poorly written. "The referendum question was worded in such a way that it would fail," said Patrick after the April 2 election. Murphy said she learned after the election that the issue to demolish the pool would be on the agenda during this week's meeting. Murphy, Patrick and current Villa Park Village Trustee David Cillella will be sworn in to four-year terms next month.

Four elected to the District 88 Board of Education

The District 88 Board of Education had four full four-year terms open during last week's election. Eight candidates sought the four available seats. The four winners in the April 2 election were incumbent Donna Craft Cain, Amy Finnegan, Lisa Knauf and Daniel Olson. They will be sworn in during the April 29 District 88 Board of Education meeting. They will join fellow board members Jay Irvin, Thomas Edmler and Blanca Jessen. Donna Craft Cain has been on the board since 2004. She has been the board president since 2011. Cain graduated from Willowbrook High School. Her three daughters are also District 88 graduates. Finnegan has lived in the area for over 20 years. She has a daughter who attends Jackson Middle School. Finnegan is a member of the Villa Park Junior Women's Club. Knauf, who has lived in the district most of her life, is a parent of two District 88 graduates. She is an attorney, and she currently serves on the board of the Addison Public Library. Olson moved to the area 27 years ago. His three sons graduated from Willowbrook High School. Olson has been a Cub Scout and Boy Scout leader for the past 17 years. He is also a board member for the Willowbrook Athletic Booster Club.

Cullerton aims to ease blood draw anxieties for those with disabilities

Having blood drawn can be a very anxious thing for a child with autism. Thanks to Sen. Tom Cullerton (D-Villa Park), medical professionals may soon have access to training to help ensure individuals and developmental disabilities are as comfortable as possible.

Cullerton recently advanced Senate Bill 1214, which requires the Department of Public Health to ensure that those who draw blood have the most current method of drawing blood from individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities available.

"Health care professionals strive to provide the best possible care to all patients," Cullerton said. "This measure ensures that they receive training on the best practices to draw blood from patients that are living with intellectual and developmental disabilities such as autism and Down syndrome have a good medical experience."

The Department of Public Health will be required to compile current methods of drawing blood from children and adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities.

Senate Bill 1214 was an initiative of Michael Baker, a parent advocate of a young adult son with a developmental disability.

"Medical visits can be stressful for all of us, but especially for individuals who can often face extra challenges," Cullerton said. "We need to ensure that communication and sensory issues are taken into account when medical professionals perform procedures such as blood draws."

Senate Bill 1214 passed the Senate's Committee on Public Health with bipartisan support and will move to the full Senate for consideration.

Kase, who was appointed to the board shortly before he was elected a trustee eight years ago, said he was brought onto the board by then-Village President Tom Cullerton to help straighten out the village's permitting processes.

Kase said his position to support the demolition of Lufkin Pool led to his fourth-place finish in last week's election. He said several residents who want to re-open the pool, which has been closed since the end of the 2017 season, wanted him off the board.

The village board is voting this week on a resolution to authorize a proposal to demolish the pool, which is located at 1000 S. Ardmore Ave. The board met on Monday, April 8, at the Iowa Community Center (after this week's Villa Park Review was published).

Willowbrook brothers receive Evans Scholarship; continue family's love of golf

For Willowbrook seniors Taylor and Tyler Sarovich, being on the golf course is a way of life and runs in the family.

Their father, Michael, played golf at the collegiate level, and their older brother, Maximilian (a Willowbrook alumnus, class of 2016), and cousin received the Evans Scholarship. The twin brothers have followed in those footsteps, as Taylor and Tyler also were recently named as Evans Scholars.

According to the Evans Scholarship website, "The Evans Scholarship is a full tuition and housing college scholarship for high-achieving caddies with limited financial means. To qualify, caddies must meet the requirements of having a strong caddie record, excellent academics, demonstrated financial need and outstanding character." Read more at <https://wgaesf.org/a-life-changing-opportunity>.

Taylor and Tyler have been caddies at Butterfield Country Club in Oak Brook for nearly six years, and they're thrilled their hard work and dedication have paid off. They said the journey wasn't easy and involved a lot of sacrifice, including leaving the Willowbrook football team to pursue the scholarship and their love of golf.

"When I received the letter, it all became real," Taylor said. "It's a very competitive scholarship, so you can't help but second-guess yourself and whether you're good enough to get this honor. It was a huge relief, and it made all the sacrifices worth it."

The brothers will live in the Evans Scholarship House at the University of Kansas. Taylor plans to earn a degree in communications and then attend graduate and law school. Tyler plans to major in accounting and psychology.

other sports, and he looks forward to participating in intramural sports at the university.

"Golf really is different than any other sport," Taylor said. "You're out there by yourself, so there's a lot of opportunity for individual improvement. You also learn a lot of life lessons and skills through the sport."

Taylor said he enjoys playing golf, but his passion really lies in being a caddie.

"There are so many minute details when it comes to caddying that a lot of people don't realize," Tyler said. "Your goal and focus is to say and do the right things to help your golfer be successful. I hope more students—boys and girls—consider caddying. While it might seem intimidating, you don't have to be an expert at golf, and training is provided."

The brothers said they're humbled by this opportunity, and they know they couldn't have achieved this level of success without the support of their family, friends and staff at Willowbrook.

"Willowbrook is special, because the teachers and staff take the time to get to know you," Taylor and Tyler said. "They always ask how we're doing and really connect with us as more than just students."

The Rams celebrate

Senior Amy Chiero (No. 3) of the Glenbard East girls soccer team celebrates after scoring a first-half goal during Saturday's match against Deerfield at the PepsiCo Showdown event in Schaumburg. The Rams beat Deerfield 1-0 in the opening-round battle in the tournament, which continues this week. The victory gave Glenbard East an overall season record of 7-1-1. Earlier in the week, the Rams began their Upstate Eight Conference season with a 2-2 tie against West Chicago in Lombard. Senior Lindsey Novak and junior Molly Galvin scored the Rams' goals. Novak and sophomore Maddie Weltin each had an assist for Glenbard East, which held a 2-0 halftime lead.

PREP ROUNDUP

While Katelynne Hart runs fastest 3,200 in California, Hilltoppers win Downers Grove South Invite title

By BILL STONE

editorial@mysuburbanlife.com

DOWNERS GROVE – Downers Grove South junior Erin Reidy fondly remembers breaking 5 minutes in the 1,600-meter run for the first time about a year ago.

"Incredible," Reidy said. "I wanted to be up there with the fantastic all-state runners and thinking about it, I was overwhelmed with emotion."

On April 6, Reidy's 1,600 at Downers Grove South's annual Mustang Invitational was just another tremendous time this season. Even after a hard training week, Reidy nearly won (4:59.54), but she was edged by Hinsdale Central junior Emma Watcke, a move-in this semester from Ohio (lifetime-best 4:59.47).

This season, Reidy set indoor school records for the 800 (2:11.47) and 1,600 (4:58.42) and with the 3,200 relay (9:20.49). Reidy and senior Becky Versaskas return from last year's all-state third-place 3,200 relay.

"I'm just so excited for the end of the season and what it has to hold," Reidy said.

Glenbard West remained undefeated since indoors by winning the invite for the first time since 2014 with 100 points, outscoring defending Class 3A state champion Naperville North (86). Lyons Township (82), the Mustangs (66) and Hinsdale Central (56) were third, fourth and seventh.

The Hilltoppers received titles from senior Huda Hussaini (12.93 in 100), juniors Ashley Samuta (16-6 3/4 in long jump) and Aaliyah Collier (4-10 in high jump) and the 1,600 relay of Collier, Hussaini, junior Ava Powell and sophomore Kate Morrison (4:03.99). Senior Dejah Hopkins (35-11 in shot put) and the 400 relay of Hussaini, Morrison, Samuta and freshman Kyrah Maas (49.99) were second.

Glenbard West competed without junior Katelynne Hart, the two-time defending 3,200 and 1,600 state champion. Hart won the 3,200 on April 6 at the Arcadia (California) Invitational in 9:59.57, this season's fastest U.S. girls high school time.

"I just wanted to prove that Katelynne is a great runner, but we have a team," Collier said. "She's so good, but we make her proud and she makes us proud."

The 1,600 relay won by .06 with Morrison in Hart's anchor spot.

"We're just confident as a team and in each other," Morrison said. "I think I just found something [extra], and I wanted to do good for the team and do my best."

Hinsdale Central junior Dior Nicholson won shot (invite and stadium-record 41-5 1/2) and discus (133-5) with lifetime bests. Senior Bella Pisani (400 in 1:00.68) and the 3,200 relay of junior Taylor Wagner and McKenna Revord, Pisani and sophomore Diana Dene-mark (9:38.97) were second.

Glenbard South

The Raiders beat West Chicago 94-81 in an Upstate Eight dual April 9. Katyla Sims won the 100 (13.77) and 200 (29.13), Kelly Anderson the 400 (1:14.65), Ellie Stewart the 3,200 (13:12.06), Ciara Jackson the shot put (33-9) and Nikki Newman the discus (102-4). Glenbard South also won the 400 relay (54.02) and 800 relay (1:58.49).

SOFTBALL Willowbrook

Emma Barrington hit a grand slam and had five runs batted in, Annemarie Knudtson drove in four runs, and Caitlyn Kulczynski (2-0) struck out five in a one-hitter to lead the Warriors past Proviso West 17-1. Kayla Neff had a grand slam and six RBIs, Kulczynski hit a three-run homer and had four RBIs and Caroline Dooley struck out eight in an 18-1 win over Argo.

Lemont

Nicole Brace went 3-for-4 with three doubles and five RBIs for the Indians (6-1, 4-0) in a 15-0 win over Eisenhower on April 9. Nina Mardjetko struck out nine in a three-hitter and went 2-for-4 with two RBIs in a 5-1 win over Evergreen Park on April 8. Mardjetko struck out five and Maddy Wallace was 2-for-4 with two runs scored in a 3-1 win over Downers Grove North on April 6.

BOYS LACROSSE Lemont

MVA - ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

MATT SCHERRMAN

WHEATON WARRENVILLE S. Senior | Baseball

Why Scherrman was selected:

Wheaton Warrenville South senior Matt Scherrman had a huge part in three wins. Scherrman was 4-for-4 with two doubles and was the winning pitcher against Schaumburg, had a double in an 11-9 comeback win over Benet and went 2-for-4 at the plate and threw two shutout innings for the save against Stevenson.

Scherrman talked about the week, the season and more with Suburban Life sports editor Joshua Welge. Here is an edited version of the transcript.

Welge: What are your thoughts on the start to the season?

Scherrman: We can't be disappointed at all. We are 6-3, we've got a lot of people playing well. It's been offense, defense and pitching.

Welge: Last week was pretty good, right?

Scherrman: We beat Stevenson, we beat Benet in kind of a crazy game. We were up 6-1, kind of got on them early, they put up eight runs in the fifth, we got down three, scored five runs in the sixth and then shut them down in the seventh. It's just been everyone doing their jobs.

Welge: You have a lot of seniors on this team. Does that give you confidence that you guys can have a turnaround season?

Scherrman: Having so many people back, we know that it's our turn to get the job done. Everybody knows this is our last year playing together. Four of us have been up for three years. We're all clicking together.

Welge: Are you playing in college?

Scherrman: Yes, but I'm not totally sure where yet. It's down to two Division III schools, and we're waiting on a Division I school.

Flanagan's Boston finish sets her up for even bigger things

Lindsay Flanagan is running unattached, without a sponsor. After Monday that may change.

Achieving her goal of a top-10 finish to gain Olympic Trials qualification, the former Lake Park and University of Washington distance star placed ninth among women at the 123rd Boston Marathon.

Flanagan finished the winding, 26.2-mile course in 2 hours, 30 minutes, 7 seconds.

The third American woman after Jordan Hasay and Desiree Linden, she crossed the finish line in Boston's Copley Square 6 minutes, 36 seconds behind the women's winner, Worknesh Degefa of Ethiopia.

When the lead pack moved at the 3-mile mark Flanagan hung back, she said. The strategy saved energy to combat the hills down the road. Her first checkpoint among the top 10 runners was after the 21-mile mark.

"I made my move with about 10 miles to go, and that's when I was able to start picking people off," she said Tuesday.

Her younger sister, Kaylee, a former state champion at Lake Park herself, helped celebrate the moment.

"She was going crazy when I was coming in, and she was right there when I finished," said Lindsay Flanagan, who encouraged her parents, Milton and Becky, to watch the race on television due to a lack of good vantage points.

Flanagan has rebounded from injury. She finished 11th in Boston in 2017 at 2:34.44, but stress fractures in her feet reflected a 37th-place finish at the World Championships in London four months later.

Once healed she returned to the 2018 Frankfurt Marathon in Germany, where she'd had success in 2016. Last year she set her personal record of 2:29.25.

"It was a pretty tough year (in 2017) and last year was pretty big to be able to come back and have a big 'PR' when I ran Frankfurt.

David Oberhelman

That was a good step in the right direction," said Flanagan, 28, who lives in Boulder, Colorado.

Along with coach Steve Magness and agent Josh Cox, Flanagan started the buildup to Boston in mid-December.

"I ran in Germany at the end of October, so this gave me plenty of time to recover and get ready for this one," she said. "That last one was more like a pace kind of race, but Boston is more like a championship race. It's tactical, it's not so much about time as it is place."

Flanagan said she and her team had focused on attaining qualifying position in Boston and little beyond that. With the standard achieved she may run shorter events, half-marathons or 10-kilometer races, leading up to the Olympic Marathon Trials in Atlanta on Feb. 29, 2020.

"If I can get faster at the shorter stuff that helps with the marathon, for sure," Flanagan said.

Remembering Lauren

The 13th Lauren's Bash will be held April 26 at Anyway's Pub, 5 E. Roosevelt Rd., Oakbrook Terrace, from 7 p.m. on. It's a run-up to the 13th Remembering Lauren 5K Family Run/Walk on June 15, starting and ending at Willowbrook High School.

The party, 5K and the Lauren Kiefer Memorial Foundation itself arose out of a tragic situation. Returning home from a party on Christmas Day 2006, the 2000 Willowbrook graduate interrupted a burglar inside, who fatally beat her.

In the 2007 debut of the Remembering Lauren 5K, $50,000 was donated in her name to agencies such as St. Jude Children's Research Hospital and Parents of Murdered Children. Over the years beneficiaries have included Lurie's Children's Hospital, the York Center Food Pantry and simply families in need.

Lauren's mother, Willowbrook High School athletic department administrative assistant Janice Kiefer, said more than $100,000 alone has gone to scholarships for Willowbrook seniors who shared Lauren's traits of kindness, compassion, academics and community pride.

Lauren's Bash on April 26 will offer split-the-pot and raffle prizes, including a five-day condominium stay in Myrtle Beach, South Carolina. Those who present a flyer available on the foundation website will have 20 percent of their food and beverage costs donated to the foundation. For more information, visit www.rememberlaur.com.

Going for it

We all know what senioritis is. Waubonsie Valley's Harper Cole has the opposite of that.

An all-DuPage Valley Conference receiver-corerback and four-year football player for the Warriors, this spring

Cole went out for tennis. It's the first time he's played the game competitively since he was a sixth-grader at Scullen Middle School.

He's on the Warriors' No. 1 doubles team with partner Andrew Luckett, a junior. After an 0-3 start the duo now stands at 4-5, helping Waubonsie win the Schaumburg Invite on April 13.

Cole said over the years boys tennis coach Phil Galow had asked him about joining the team, but the clincher came when Waubonsie Valley Principal Jason Stipp heard Cole had played. Stressing how fast high school experiences fly by, Cole said, Stipp made his pitch.

"He was like, give it a look, inviting me, I guess," Cole said. "It made me excited to get something going in the spring. I guess I'm not one to coast, I like to be active and kind of go with the flow rather than being laid-back at home."

Cole also wanted to break the "stereotype" that a football player can't play tennis, and vice versa.

He bought a new racket, but it broke. Cole dusted off the old Babolat he'd used to win a middle school tournament while still in fifth grade and qualify for a regional tournament in Indianapolis at 10 years old, playing with Five Star Tennis in Plainfield.

"There were Harper Cole times when I missed it, watching on television or kind of messing around with my parents, who both play, but I loved football too much to really miss it," Cole said.

It didn't hurt that his mother, Eliza, wanted him to play. Not that he'll freely admit it.

"I guess I'm not, like, doing it for her," Cole said, "but it's kind of fun to have her watch me and relive old times."

Naperville Central girls swim coach Mike Adams received the 2019 Outstanding Service Award by the National Interscholastic Swimming Coaches Association on March 23 in Austin, Texas. A state coach of the year seven times, sectional coach of the year 13 times and a national coach of the year, Adams' honor simultaneously entered him into the International Swimming Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Ed Vatch, who went 28-0 and won the 167-pound wrestling title in 1971 as a senior at Addison Trail — and later beat a 680-pound bear named Victor — was inducted into the Illinois Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association Hall of Fame on April 6 in Countryside. An Amateur Athletic Union national champion and Junior Olympics bronze medalist, Vatch was named a high school scholastic All-American by Amateur Wrestling News in 1971. At Wisconsin he was a two-time Big Ten champion whose 32 career falls rank third there. An assistant coach at Northern Illinois, Vatch helped produce 16 Mid-American Conference champions and 32 NCAA qualifiers.

Glenbard West senior gymnast Maddie Diab joined Sports Illustrated's "Faces in the Crowd" section in the magazine's March 25-April 1 edition. The blurb highlighted the Iowa State recruit's titles in balance beam, parallel bars, vault and all-around at the girls state finals Feb. 15-16, pacing Glenbard West's second straight state championship. It credited Diab's three all-around victories and 10 overall state titles in her events.
